My name is Nathaniel lakin, I have lived in the home at 13 Freese Rd in Varna NY., for 9 years. This home was built in 1805, probably the oldest standing structure in Varna. This charming old house, despite the neglect it's endured, is solid, and so important as a symbol of what an American town is, a place with a visual history and culture. razing old places like this for short term revenue is stupid. And by short term, I expect there will be serious drainage and sewer issues that will be very costly and potentially polluting fall creek that will open the company up to law suites within five years of construction. Preserving the historical integrity of small towns in America is a morally sound thing to do, destroying it is not. I hope you will please consider changing course. Nathaniel lakin.
